Description: Panama City is the dynamic capital of Panama, located at the Pacific end of the Panama Canal. Known for its striking skyline, modern infrastructure, and historic districts like Casco Viejo, it's a major hub for finance, trade, and tourism in Central America. The city offers a unique blend of cosmopolitan energy, cultural heritage, and natural beauty. Casco Viejo, also known as the Old Quarter, is the historic heart of Panama City. Founded in 1673 after the original city was destroyed by pirates, it features charming colonial architecture, cobblestone streets, vibrant plazas, and a mix of cafés, boutiques, and cultural landmarks. A UNESCO World Heritage Site, Casco Viejo blends old-world charm with modern flair, making it a popular destination for history lovers and tourists.
